"Hilos" to Sing on Campus Mar. 11

The "Hi-Los," a nationally ranked singing quartet, has been booked for a one-night stand at SU on Tuesday, March 11, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Santos Contreras, ASSU vice president, announced today that the group is on a Northwest tour from Hollywood and will present a complete program here in their unique renditions of popular selections. Tickets will go on sale next week at $1 each.

Movie Set for Two Showings

The Cinemascope production of "The Left Hand of God," starring Humphrey Bogart and Gene Tierney, will be shown in Pigott Auditorium this Sunday, March 2, at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Admission is 25 cents.

During Lent, movies will be shown every Sunday at two performances, one in the afternoon and the other at the usual evening hour.

"The Left Hand of God," based on the best seller by William E. Barrett, is the story of an American flyer forced down in China who falls in with a band of Chinese bandits. After several years with them he is forced to escape in the disguise of a slain Catholic priest.

Arriving at a mission he is naturally mistaken for the priest and is forced to continue his masquerade. The presence of an American nurse only adds to the mental and spiritual torture of the flyer. The resolution of his problems makes a fascinating motion picture.

Sponsoring this movie are the eight cheerleaders. All profit they receive will go toward paying their way to the NCAA in San Francisco. They sincerely urge all to attend the movie either at the matinee or evening performance.

SU Hosts High School Leaders For Spring Vacation Confab

The first annual High School Leadership Conference will be held at S. U. during Spring vacation, Mar. 21 to Mar. 23. Approximately 160 top high school students from a large sector of the Northwest area will represent their schools at the conference, ac-from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Following will be a dinner banquet at Marycrest and a social hour at Xavier Hall from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. S. U.'s "Pitchhikers" will provide entertainment, with Fred Lanouette acting as master of ceremonies.

Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., will give the opening address welcoming the high school students to campus. During the conference Mr. James Reilly of the Psychology Dept., will deliver the keynote speech on leadership. Brian Culbertson, ASSU president, will serve as master of ceremonies for the banquet and general meetings.

Others participating in the program are Mr. Ron Peterson, Rev. John J. Kelley, S.J., Rev. John G. Gurr, S.J., Rev. John A. Fitterer, S.J., Rev. Michael Toulouse, S.J., and Mr. Gene Ford.

The service organizations, Spurs, APhiO's, IK's, and Town Girls along with the honor organizations, Alpha Sigma Nu and Silver Scroll are assisting in the weekend activities. The Student Body Officers have also been cooperating in helping formulate plans for the conference.

As a concluding remark, co-chairmen Greg and Jigger, both Pre-Med majors, state that "With the help of Fr. Kelley, S.J., and Mr. Ron Peterson and the other student leaders, we will strive to do our utmost in making this leadership conference a tremendous success."

LEADERSHIP REVIEW CHAIRMEN (Front row) Leo Shahon, Rosemary Jellison, (Back row) Paul Turner and Santos Contreras set plans for this Saturday's meet.

Leadership Confab Review Set for Saturday, March 1

Over 100 campus leaders, comprising a cross-section of the student body, will meet together at a Leadership Conference Review, to be held this Saturday, March 1, in the Student Union Building.

Plans and purposes of this meeting include discussion of student body administration and activities in the light of suggestions resulting from the Leadership Conference held last summer at Camp Sevenich. However, discussion will not be limited to those topics alone but will include constructive criticism and ideas which will serve to better student life as well as the overall picture of university life.

The conference will begin with breakfast in the cafeteria at 8 a.m. The program following will include two general meetings and three seminars; after the day has been concluded, a banquet will be served to all delegates, starting at approximately 6 p.m. Since meals will be eaten in the cafeteria, it will be necessary to secure a two-dollar fee from each person.

Invitations are being mailed to heads of all campus organizations and leaders in every phase of college life. Those receiving entry blanks have been asked to submit them to the ASSU office by today. In addition, other students interested in attending may do so by contacting the ASSU office before this Friday, Feb. 28.

"At the conclusion of the summer conference, it was decided that a review would be held sometime during the school year," explained Leo Shahon, chairman of the meeting. "Due to a full schedule of activities, it has been impossible to hold that review until now."

We realize that not much notice has been given but sincerely hope that students will make every effort to attend. Student leaders have an obligation both to the school and to the students they represent to voice their opinions."

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Rev. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., dean of students, announced that no card-playing is permissible at any time in the Chieftain cafeteria. This is a university rule, and infraction will be subject to penalties imposed by the Student-Faculty Disciplinary Board.

AWS Initiates Monthly Honor

"Girl of the Month." This is the title to be bestowed upon a most deserving girl by the Associated Women Students of Seattle University. An innovation on campus, this award will be presented monthly throughout the school year and will be featured in the Spectator.

The award is to be given to the woman student who has participated wholeheartedly in school activities but has not received proper recognition for her effort.

Said Pat Dennehy, AWS president, "This will show our deep appreciation for the accomplishments of the hard-working girl behind the scenes."

Any women's group on campus may submit the name of their candidate in a letter explaining her qualifications for this award. Entries will be judged by the AWS officers and their faculty advisor, Mrs. Marie Leonard, dean of women.

The Girl of the Month for February will be announced in next week's Spectator. March entries are now being received in the AWS office.

Cadets Nominate 15 Co-eds For April Military Ball Court

Fifteen attractive SU co-eds have been nominated for princesses of the Royal Court of the Reserve Officer Training Corps' Military Ball, to be held Friday evening, April 11, in the Spanish Ballroom of the Olympic Hotel.

The Cadet Corps will hold primary elections the first week of March to select five of the fifteen girls for the Court. From these five candidates, senior ROTC members will choose one to be Military Ball Queen. Pictures of the princesses will be on display around the campus for possibly a week before voting.

All cadets will be in full dress uniform for the dance, limited to the military cadets, their guests, and the staff. Amidst the pageantry of visiting dignitaries, an arch of sabers will be raised for the queen and her court. A high-ranking general will be present to crown the queen. The drill team, according to chairman Ray Weber, will also participate in the evening's coronation ceremonies.

Kathy Werran will execute the designing and creation of the gowns.

West Point Cadets to Join With Gavel Club in Discussion

Two cadets from West Point will be the guests of the Seattle U Gavel Club Monday, March 3, and will discuss with the Gavel Club the problems of the Middle East that evening in the Chieftain lounge at 8 p.m.

Education Library Opened in Pigott

Seattle University has established and is developing a special Education Library in the new Commerce and Education Building. It is adapted for the benefit of students in the School of education and for teachers in the field.

The library will be named officially, "The Education Memorial Library," and will be dedicated to the memory of Seattle University graduates in Education who have or shall have dedicated their lives to the teaching and guidance of youth.

To date, two former students at Seattle University and teachers in Washington schools have been memorialized in the new library. They are Richard I. O'Brien, class of 1949, died February 27, 1957, and John C. Codd, class of 1950, died January 17, 1958.

Richard O'Brien taught in the high schools of the City of Seattle (West Seattle, Garfield, and Lincoln) and was for one year a Fulbright Exchange Teacher in Australia. John (Jack) Codd taught at Davenport and Cheney high schools and at Bellarmine High School in Tacoma. Should alumni or friends of these young men wish to make contributions of either books or funds to this memorial library, such gifts will be gratefully accepted.

The library will contain for the most part books and reference materials suitable for the preparation and improvement of teachers. It will include as substantial a collection of basic high school and elementary school textbooks and materials as is possible, and the newest editions of this type of material.

To insure the greatest number of students and teachers access to this material, circulation will be limited to two-day loans.

The library will be operated on the same basis as the main library on the campus. It will be open to students from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. daily, with the possibility of arrangement for evening hours as well. Miss Lee Hodson, a trained librarian, is in charge.

The second representative from the Point, Cadet Brookhart, is also a first classman who hails from Des Moines, Iowa. He has been among the top five per cent of his class for three years and has been, according to accumulative grade point, number one in his class for the past three and a half years. He is chairman of the debate council and forum and has also served as delegate to the Student Council on United States Affairs. After graduating, Cadet Brookhart intends to go into either the infantry or the armored division.

The first appearance of the two cadets will be on KOMO-TV Monday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. After this they will arrive on campus, have dinner and begin discussion soon after dinner, probably in the lounge of the Chieftain. Formal discussion will begin at 8 p.m.

Dave Moore, Judith Ann Olsen, O'Neal McGowan, Frank DeMeyer, along with other members of the Gavel Club will participate in this discussion.

Aegis Sponsors Award for Clubs

The Aegis staff, in cooperation with faculty adviser Mr. John Talevich, is presenting for the first time an award for the most beneficial student organization on campus.

The award is to be given to the organization which has contributed most to the betterment of student life at Seattle U., taking into account all aspects of university life, social, mental, and moral. The club thus honored will take precedence over all other organized campus groups in this year's Aegis, heading the section on organizations.

The Spirit Award, to be presented annually by the Aegis, will consist not in blue ribbons or loving cups, but in lasting recognition as the "organization of the year." Such recognition will give it a permanent place in the minds and hearts of SU students, faculty, and alumni.

Said Aegis editor, Shirley Ebner, "We hope that the Aegis Spirit Award will be an incentive to all campus organizations to fulfill their purpose—the betterment of student life at Seattle U."

Greg Barlow "Jigger" Labuda

cording to Jigger La Buda and Greg Barlow, co-chairmen of the project.

High schools from Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Vancouver, B. C., Portland, and Mt. Angel, Ore., are among the 25 schools participating in the weekend conference.

The main topics for discussion during the three-day conference will be centered on seminars in spiritual, social, and academic subjects and the student's role regarding responsibilities and qualities in each field. The program's goal though, is to initiate students to campus life, social activities and entertainment.

The conference will get under way with registration Friday evening, Mar. 21, in the L. A. Building

Northwest Powers, PLC and Chiefs Tangle Tomorrow Night at Civic

Back to their winning ways after Tuesday night's "tune-up" victory over Buchan's, the Seattle University Chieftains resume college play tomorrow night against a "keyed-up" Pacific Lutheran team. The varsity tilt will be preceded by a preliminary between the Papooses and Connors Sales on the Civic Auditorium court.

The Lutherans have almost the entire team back from last year's powerhouse 28-1 squad, including their three leading scorers. The Gladiators are having a bit more difficulty this year matching that 1956-57 record, but have again qualified for the state NAIA play-offs. Coach Marv Harshman's five is 17-4 in college ball this season, the only losses coming in pairs to Gonzaga and Montana State. The last two losses at Bozeman were the first of this week.

Pacific Lutheran also polished off the Buchan Bakers three times and dropped a close one to the Denver D-C Truckers, ranking national amateur power. The Parkland, Wash., school would like nothing better than a victory over Seattle U, whom they desperately wanted to tangle with last season. Now that they've got their chance, a large group of Tacoma area fans will probably be on hand to cheer their pride and joy against the Redmen.

Coach Harshman has compiled an outstanding record in his 13 years (counting the present season) at PLC. An example of the high regard the coach has throughout the Northwest is the fact that he recently was named to succeed Jack Friel as hoop mentor at Washington State. Harshman will leave PLC, where he is also athletic director, for the larger school in April. But before bidding adieu to his alma mater, Coach Harshman would like to see his Lutherans gain the NAIA championship, an honor they barely missed last year—their lone defeat was a one-point setback to Tennessee State, a team which went on to take the crown. This year, however, the Lutes have found opposition to gaining even the state title, in the person of Gonzaga. Chances are the two teams will tangle for the bid to Kansas City March 3-5.

The PLC game also could be a tournament booster for the Chieftains. Seattle U would like nothing better than to extend their home victory string. The Chiefs haven't lost a college game at friendly Civic Auditorium since the early part of 1956. To extend that string John Castellani's hoopsters will have to contain a high-scoring PLC attack built around three junior lettermen and a rebounding veteran.

"Mr. Big" on the Gladiators is Chuck Curtis, a 6-ft. 5-in. scoring leader. Curtis set a new school scoring record last year when he averaged 20.4 points a game, but he'll probably erase his own mark when this season ends. The Montana lad has scorched the hoop for over 23 points per game, including a high of 44 in a single contest. He also is the Lutherans' top rebounder.

Two other of last year's mainstays back up the attack. Tiny (5-ft. 9-in.) guard Roger Iverson is the second-high pointmaker with an average of 15 points a game. Jim Van Beek, the other of the trio, is averaging over 11 points a game.

Tom Sahli, 6-ft. 5-in. senior, is a strong rebounder and can score when the need presents itself. The other starter is guard Bob Roiko.

After Friday night's action the Chieftains finish out their regular season with two more home games. A "revenge" meeting with Idaho State is next on the line, March 5. Bradley ends the season here on the 10th.

Rollers, Raiders Clash Today

Today's matches in the SU Bowling League should make or break the Holy Rollers' runaway. The Rollers extended their lead to a full three games last Thursday by sweeping four points from the outclassed Red Birds, while their closest rivals stumbled. Only the Hot Shots, who also took four, didn't lose any more ground to the Jesuits.

Reiser's powerful Raiders test the Rollers today at 1 p.m. and need at least three points to remain in contention. The day's other "big" match pits the Hot Shots against the Unknowns.

Mark Hanses and Diane Johnson took over the high individual average leads in play February 20.

Hanses regained his early season lead for the boys when ex-pace-setter John Broell slipped to 176; Mark has a 179 mean. Al Schakohl remains in contention with a 176 also.

Miss Johnson's average went up five points to 128 and it was another case of the former leader faltering. Linda Manlowe couldn't find the pins and nosedived to 123. Grace Orchard separates the two with her 125.

The standings (going into today's play):

	Won	Lost
Holy Rollers .....	20	4
Reiser's Raiders .....	17	7
Hot Shots .....	17	7
Unknowns .....	16	8
Giants .....	14	10

Letters to the Editor:

A gambling casino(?), gems and homecoming

Dear Editor:

I would like to call your attention to a fairly new, but nevertheless pressing, problem that has developed here at Seattle University; namely, the need for a special building fund. No, this isn't the fund for a library, auditorium or science building—it is something that is apparently more desirable to a certain element of the younger intelligentsia at our university; a bright, flashy gambling casino.

There are certain obvious groups of empty-minded idlers who attend Seattle U only in order to find partners for Old Maid and Fish. These youngsters, evidently educated in the most wretched pool-halls of our fair city, spend a great deal of time (about 12 hours each day) playing their little games of skill in the Chieftain.

After all, this is hardly the place to show one's skill at games that are usually reserved for preschool birthday parties. However, perhaps one should sympathize with these poor souls for, since the curfew has gone into effect, they probably have to get their recreation during the day. They obviously are under 18, mentally if not physically.

At almost any hour one can walk into the Chieftain for coffee, conversation or rest, only to be approached by a young punk with sideburns and a rock 'n' roll jacket, who creeps up to you and inquires, "Hey, buddy, how's about a fast game of Crazy 8's?"

This fabulous game can be purchased in any variety store for 39 cents in a package with several other engrossing games, including Animal Rummy, Stealing Casino and Fibber Magee and Molly Quiz Cards.

Think for a moment just what these young men and women could do for SU—the Chieftain another Sands Hotel, with Marlene Dietrich perched atop the piano, singing "Lili Marlene"; Mickey Cohen dealing a fast game of Animal Rummy to these miniature "Lucky" Lucianos; Lili St. Cyr and Tempest Storm shooting craps with the ROTC cadets.

Why there is no limit to how far the fame of our school could spread if we erected a gambling casino. In case of too many large donations for this very worthy cause, I am sure we could persuade Father Nichols to tear out his beautiful flower beds and erect in their place a sandbox, teeter-totters and a large maroon-and-white plastic wading pool so that we might have suitable recreational facilities for these young men and women who now monopolize one-half of the tables in the Chieftain all day long.

Sincerely,
MIKE RYAN.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We think Mr. Ryan has a valid point but we're unhappy to note the exclusion of UNCLE WIGGILY and MONOPOLY, long-time favorites of the SPECTATOR staff.)

Dear Editor:

At this time I wish to thank all those who worked so long and hard to make "Gems of Light Opera" the huge success it was.

Into any production of this size go many hours of rehearsal. I'd like to thank first and foremost, the Chorale and their tireless director Mr. Carl Pitzer, who did such an outstanding job with such a vast amount of music to learn and memorize.

For performing one of the most difficult and talent-demanding jobs of the evening, I'd like to thank accompanists Teresa Kelly and Shirley Anderson.

Mr. Edward Ottum is to be thanked for his excellent additional accompaniment on the organ.

Thanks must go to Patricia McNulty, who added beauty and elegance with her skill on the harp.

Father Daniel Reidy, S.J., as head of the Music Department deserves a big vote of thanks for the help and cooperation he gave at all times.

Last, but not least, I thank the 500 students who attended "Gems" and gave so generously of their applause. The people who attend these concerts are the ones who make it possible for the Music Department to continue their plans for more musical programs in the future.

Sincerely yours,
PATRICK MARTIN
Production Manager.

Dear Editor:

What a wonderfully exciting Homecoming week all of us had! We would like to take this opportunity now to express our thanks to Veda Jo Vargo, Pat Galbraith and the committee chairmen for all their hard work, which certainly culminated in a successful Homecoming. Our thanks also, to the student body for choosing us to represent it.

Sincerely,
The 1958 Homecoming Court.

If you check all four, you'd be correct. The least important, however, is Carat which is dependent on the cut. Did you know that the quality of the cut can devalue a diamond as much as 75%?

Chieftains Thump Breadmen 94-77
To Avenge Opening Game Defeat

SU Accepts NCAA Bid

By CHUCK SCHMITZ

Last Tuesday evening 3,685 fans saw the SU Chieftains avenge an earlier loss to the Buchan Bakers by thumping the Breadmen 94-77.

"Sweet" Charlie Brown took over the role of "head-chief" from ailing Elgin Baylor and lead the Chiefs to their eighth straight home victory.

The game was won on speed, strength and stamina and although the officiating was rather ragged, the Chiefs took it in stride and completely outclassed the AAU champs.

It was a shooting duel the first six minutes with the score knotted four times. Then the Chiefs took command with Francis Saunder's three straight jump shots and raced to a 46-40 halftime lead.

Baylor hit five quick points at the outset of the second half just to let the Bakers know he was still around. Then the Redmen turned on the power with thier patented "super-fast" break and completely demoralized the Baker five.

SPRING MUST BE HERE!

Seattle U's varsity baseball team will hold its first official turn-out this Monday, March 3, head coach Joe Faccone has announced. The candidates will meet at Broadway Playfield.

Probationers Have
First Place Cinched

The intramural basketball season is almost over, as each league has only five more games to play.

The Probationers, by defeating the Champagne Charlies, 49-23, last Thursday, have disposed of even the remotest mathematical chance of finishing any lower than in undisputed first place.

The Trees, who have not lost a game in the second round, have moved from fourth place into a tie for second during the past week. They defeated the Mafia, 39-32, on Monday, and the Champagne Charlies, 53-37, on Tuesday. The Trees, Champagne Charlies and Mafia each have a chance to take the number two spot.

The only other N.L. game saw the Huskies capture their first win of the season by sneaking past the Dukes, 37-35, last Friday.

The American League championship is still not resolved. The ROTC won two games this past week. They stopped the Fifts, 55-32, and Kelly's Killers, 49-32.

The Nooners defeated the Goinkers, 34-32, in an important game last Friday. The victory gave the Nooners undisputed second place and a chance to grab the top spot. They meet the RO's next Monday and both teams must win to take the lead.

The Satellites hung onto third place when they turned back the Fifts, 31-26, Monday.

The most sterling play of the game was when Elgin Baylor flipped a pass over his head to Charlie Brown, who in turn flipped it in the basket without looking.

Brown lead the SU scoring punch with 28 followed by Saunders with 20 and Baylor and Frizzel, each with 17.

SU outrebounded the Bakers, 53 to 29, with Baylor grabbing 20 and Charlie Brown 17.

"Baylor and Brown kept us from getting an offensive rebound the second half," Buchan Coach Frank Fiddler said after the game.

Prior to last Tuesday's clash the Chiefs made a road trip on which they met the Montana State "Bobcats" and the Idaho State "Bengals." Seattle U. trimmed the "Bobcats," 78-77 by virtue of Jim "Papa" Harney's last-minute set shot.

Idaho State, champions of the Rocky Mountain Conference, handed the Chiefs their first loss since Christmas by trimming the Redmen, 71-68, in an overtime. Elgin Baylor was held to a total of 55 points in both games but still leads the nation's scorers with a 33.76 average.

Seattle University's nationally ranked Chieftains accepted a bid to the 1958 NCAA Western Regionals Tuesday afternoon, putting an end to numerous rumors concerning postseason plans for the team. Rumors, probably correct, had been circulating that the NIT had sent several "feelers" to the Chiefs, but the school accepted the more desirable NCAA bid instead.

The action was made by the five-man Faculty Athletic Board, and the Rev. John Kelley, S.J., executive vice president, made the official announcement.

The Chiefs will meet the Skyline Conference champions (probably Colorado State or Wyoming) March 12, on a site yet to be selected. SU, and particularly Coach John Castellani, would like the game to be held in Seattle but a "neutral site" is the likely choice.

The Skyline-SU winner will meet the WCAC champion, undoubtedly San Francisco, in the Golden Gate city March 14. The other regional game will feature the PCC champion against the Idaho State - Border Conference victor.

This will be the fifth NCAA appearance for the Chieftains, their last appearance being two years ago at Corvallis, Ore.; then the site for the Regionals.

Add note to the Seattle "Times" sports crew: Oregon State's six "benedicts" aren't the most married hoopsters on the Coast. When checked last, seven of our own Seattle U Chieftains had marched to the altar and repeated the sacred vows.

Movies-better than ever

When the Pigott Auditorium stage curtains gradually parted last Sunday evening, the student body got its first glimpse of the Cinemascope screen that has just been installed. The new ten by twenty-four foot screen stretches across almost the full length of the stage. The Carbon Arc projector and Cinemascope lens provide the viewers with up-to-date film techniques.

The programming is giving the student excellent movie fare at extremely low prices. The scheduled showings, plus the Sunday afternoon matinee, are further conveniences for the Lent-keeping students.

Besides the benefits of entertainment the student body will receive, the campus organizations are discovering that the movies are a boon to the low treasuries.

The Spectator staff, on behalf of the student body, wishes to thank the Administration, and particularly the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., for these new benefits. The ASSU Movie Board is also due a vote of thanks for its work in obtaining the new equipment.

At last the staff is moved to agree with that old Hollywood slogan "Movies are better than ever!", particularly since they are also cheaper than ever.

Broken Arrow:

In one head-out the other

• "OAKIE" OAKSMITH

There is a distinct possibility that in approximately three weeks a number of Seattle braves will stray south from the reservation. Armed with bows and arrows they plan to lend support to their mighty warrior Chieftains as they make their bid for NCAA honors at the Regionals in the Cow Palace.

There will be much ceremony and the grounds chosen as the site of the rituals lend themselves readily adaptable to merriment. Just how will the braves react to this?

That is the question that is being asked by many of the High Priests and Shamans of the Seattle Tribe.

In past years the redmen and their followers have had little cause for remorse at these inter-tribal pow-wows. They have made lasting blood-brothers as they met in combat the opening night, and in the consolation fracas the following evening. Everyone loves a good loser, and if nothing else, the Chiefs have been this.

The braves who cheer the Chieftains have also remained peaceful. The Shamans of the Corvallis tribe have had little or no cause to brandish lances. This may stem, however, from the fact that Corvallis is no more than a clearing in the vast virgin Oregonian timber stand.

This is not so in the "land of the foggy-smoggy dew." It is a fruitful land of happy hunting, but woe betide the brave who bags more than his limit. If one brave were to attempt to take more than his share of game, the rest would suffer also, and be banned from these lands forever.

The High Priests and Shamans assure us that they will have scouts at this pow-wow. It is the fervent hope of every redman that these scouts will have nothing to occupy their time. The war chants of "Tearin' up Timberline," "Plowing Thru' Portland," and "Stompin' at the Sorrento" are old and outdated.

Any who chant them in the south will be subject to one of two things. They will either run the gauntlet of the Tribal Discipline Board, or be banished from the tribe forever. It's just not worth it.

If you must hunt, do so in small hunting parties, and without wearing the maroon and white ceremonial paints. Take care not to violate the game laws, and perform what rituals you might in moderation. This is the year for all good Indians to "HELP STAMP OUT THE TOURNAMENT JINX." PEACE!!!!

CONCERT

The first Negro star ever to appear before the crowd of the Metropolitan Opera House will make her appearance before a Seattle audience the evening of March 3.

"GEMS OF LIGHT OPERA" cast with director, Carl Pitzer, take a final bow after their concert last weekend.

Review:

Gems in passing

• AL KREBS

Presenting one of the finest "Gems of Light Opera" in recent University history, the SU Chorale entertained some 800 students and friends last week end.

The program was presented in the Pigott Auditorium, which definitely lent it a professional air. The singers, under the direction of Carl Pitzer, were received warmly for the greater part of the evening.

Variety and artistry were combined by concentrating on standard show music for the first half of the program and then mixing the same music with five operatic numbers in the second half.

Several students made impressive debuts in the program. Kathleen Sheridan sang "Love Is a Very Light Thing." Janie Drong made her first solo engagement in singing "I'm in Love with a Wonderful Guy," adding a certain Mary Martinish flavor.

John Conger made his first appearance with "Serenade." He showed signs that he may be featured in starring roles in future SU musical presentations.

William Hyatt should have sung either Vaughan Monroe's "Racing with the Moon" or the "Whiffenpoof Song," as he obviously did not want to open his mouth. He made his initial solo performance with "Never Too Late for Love."

Also adding their proven talent to the show were such standbys as Don Phelps, Bernice Baumgartner, Janice Morgan, Peggy Jo Pasquier, Carol Schnuriger, John Hill, Fred Lanouette, Bill McMenamin, George McCleave and Dianne Dunne.

Miss Morgan and Mr. McCleave should be given more opportunity to perform light opera and operatic numbers in musical productions, judging by the audience reaction to their presentations.

Mr. McCleave's one number, "Evening Star," from the opera "Tannhauser," and Miss Morgan's "Ah! Fors E Lui," from "La Traviata," were far too little solo singing by these two talented students.

Miss Baumgartner's duet with Mr. McMenamin in "People Will Say We're in Love" was impressive and well received by the audience on both nights.

A genuine show-stopper was the selection from "The Bells Are Ringin'," when Miss Dunne turned in an excellent rendition of the "Perfect Relationship." Don Phelps' interpretation of the song, "Poor Jud," from "Oklahoma!" also had the audience applauding enthusiastically.

Factors which detracted from the program were the lighting and staging. The scenery, what there was of it, was both stilted and unimaginative, while the lighting at times was extremely harsh and showed a definite lack of coordination before the show.

Mr. Pitzer's direction attracted the attention of the audience, particularly in the front section of the auditorium. His brief chats with Mr. Edward Ottum at the organ during the production added a definite non-professional touch to the show.

Accompanists on the piano Shirley Anderson and Teresa Kelly were certainly at their best and provided the singers with excellent accompaniment.

Despite the minor distractions and occasional discord, the style and force of the singers and the variety of songs performed provided an enjoyable evening of music.

Mrs. Marie Leonard:

20 dedicated years

• GAIL DELWORTH

In 1938 Mrs. Marie Leonard began to teach in the English Department of Seattle College. "About the middle of the year," Mrs. Leonard recalls, "I was sitting in our apartment one afternoon when there was a knock at the door. It was Father Corkery, (then President of the College) who greeted me with 'Good afternoon, Dean of Women.' This was how I found out that I had been appointed the first Dean of Women at the College."

In these 20 years Seattle College has been changed to Seattle University, with all its accompanying developments. Our energetic and capable Dean of Women has played an important role in many of them.

Mrs. Leonard is especially proud of two activities at Seattle University which she was instrumental in organizing. One of these is the University's chapter of Spurs, national sophomore women's service honorary.

"Working with the wonderful girls in this organization has been one of the highlights of my 20 years here," she says with obvious enthusiasm. Mrs. Leonard has served as faculty moderator of the chapter since it was founded in 1950. Last year she was inducted as an honorary member for her continued assistance and encouragement to the chapter.

The first student employment service at the University was also a project of the resourceful Dean of Women. "I walked the streets of Seattle talking to employers to get it started," she states, "and I even paid for the telephone in the office we had in the Knights of Columbus building at first." Today, an estimated 400 students a year take advantage of the services of the student employment bureau.

Mrs. Leonard, in speaking of the late Rev. Howard Peronteau, S.J., former head of the sociology department, stated "He was one of the most outstanding priests I have ever met."

Remembering one time in particular, she says, "Fr. Peronteau and I went to all the old furniture dealers and bid on the furniture for the 'Cave.' It had old dining room tables and odd pieces, but there will never be another cafeteria with the friendly atmosphere it had."

When questioned about her feelings on leaving Seattle U., Mrs. Leonard commented: "Leaving Seattle U. is the most difficult thing I have ever had to do. I can't honestly say that I've enjoyed every minute of it, but overall it has been a wonderful experience."

Mrs. Leonard and her husband plan a trip to the Hawaiian Islands after Mrs. Leonard relinquishes her duties in June. They will be accompanied, of course, by a group of Seattle University women students. After that, they will "retire" to their Vashon Island home where Mrs. Leonard plans to help her husband in his job as publisher of the Blue Book of Used Car Values.
